

Information technology systems supporting the needs of staff and students

No.	Information Technology System	Primary Users	Service / Usage Characteristics	Response to the program's needs
1	SPEEXX (CLT)	Students and Staff	A self-study English-learning program for developing English language skills	Supports the development of English language skills for international program students and staff
2	Electronic book database (e-Books)	Students and Instructors	Provides online books via Website and Mobile Application, supporting iOS and Android	Enables students and instructors to conveniently access books and learning resources anytime, anywhere
3	Electronic library system of the Faculty of Business Administration	Students and Instructors	A source of e-Books and learning resources linked on the faculty's website	Supports additional research in business administration courses and related disciplines
4	Microsoft Teams	Students and Instructors	Used for blended teaching and learning, communication, assignment submission, meetings, and course task tracking	Supports online learning, make-up classes, and communication between instructors and students
5	D-Learn@RMUTT	Students and Instructors	An online classroom system for storing course documents, exercises, and learning activities	Enables students to access course content and learn continuously
6	SPSS	Students, Instructors, and Researchers	A properly licensed statistical data analysis program	Supports data analysis in coursework, projects, and research
7	AMOS	Students, Instructors, and Researchers	A program for analysing statistical models and structural relationships	Supports quantitative research and advanced data analysis
8	Turnitin	Students and Instructors	A system for checking plagiarism in academic work	Supports academic integrity and the quality of reports, projects, and research
9	The faculty's information systems and website	Students, Instructors, Staff, and Interested Persons	Used to disseminate information, news, learning resources, and channels for accessing the faculty's services	Supports communication and access to information necessary for learning and program administration